

$3 file fee established

Attorneys nettled at Youth Court proposals

By CAROLE LANGE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously Monday to levy a $3 charge on every criminal case filed in the county in an effort to secure additional funding for operation of the county youth court.

The action came following a recommendation submitted by the Youth Court Advisory Board, acting in the wake of opposition to the funding method by the Hancock County Bar Association.

John Scaffie, representing the bar association, apologized that the two organizations could not agree on a "unified front" and recommended that the board disapprove the case assessment method of funding the youth court.

"There is no way to determine the revenue the charge will bring in, because the number of cases are unpredictable," Scaffie said.

"This is an insidious way of taxing people," Scaffie said, "and it could enforce a quota system on tickets issued by the highway patrol, sheriff's office, and police departments in the county to bring more money in."

Supervisors also approved the advisory board's request for approval to advertise for bids on construction of the youth court administration building.

Bay St. Louis attorney Walter James Phillips objected to the request, claiming that the present building plans call for a courtroom "when we're more in need of a detention center." He cautioned the board against "creating another courtroom and more administrative offices than we can pay for."

Dissension between the two organizations surfaced at the board's last meeting when Michael Haas, youth court referee, approached the supervisors with a request for approval of three Mississippi House bills calling for the appointment of a youth court judge for life, the $3 charge on all cases filed in the county and a one mill levy at the discretion of the board, and an increase in the youth court referee's salary from $100 per month to not more than $7,200 annually, also at the board's discretion.

Attorneys from the county, apparently notified at the last minute of Haas' intentions, crowded the meeting room to voice their objections to the requests. It was during that meeting that Board Attorney Sam Favre asked the two groups to "work their differences out" and present a set of proposals at Monday's meeting.

In other recommendations, the bar association called for the youth court referee's salary to be set at an amount not to exceed $300 per month, and advised that a youth court judge not be appointed as provided in House Bill 1081.

The advisory board simply requested that the board take no action on the approval of bill 1081 at this time.

Because the supervisors did not act, the bill will die in committee this week.

In other business, the board voted to announce their intention of levying two mills in the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District to defray expenses of operating the volunteer fire department. It was pointed out by Favre that the millage would occur in September following preparation of budgets in August.

Routine business took up the remainder of the meeting, including the appointment of J. D. Penton to the Community Development Committee representing beat one; and accepting bids of $16,200 from Coastal Machinery for a crawler for beat one; $5,395 from an individual for a used tractor for beat four; and $30,000 from Coastal Machinery for a motor grader for beat three.

The next meeting will be held April 19 at 10 a.m.

Tax collections criticized

Carver, Ladner swap heated charges

By JAKE JACOB

Claiming more than $19,000 in business privilege tax remains uncollected for the years 1968 to 1976, Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver Monday called for his Tax Commissioner Clarence Ladner to up his efforts in effecting payment.

Ladner promptly claimed that his department was very successful in collecting all forms of taxes, a matter promptly disputed by Carver.

Producing a list of unpaid business tax, Carver told Ladner the record of non-collection did not bear out his claim of success.

"It is unfair to let some people get by with no payment whatsoever of this personal tax," Carver said.

He said the majority of businessmen paid their taxes without fuss.

"This money belongs to the city," said Carver, "if only the tax collector would go out and collect."

Ladner responded that he had been making every effort to collect the unpaid privilege tax, "...as long as he had been in office."

Ladner said that without a deadline, and the fact that great difficulties existed in the tagging of property to offset the tax, collections were difficult.

The mayor called for the minutes to reflect that he had turned over the list of unpaid privilege taxes to Ladner and motioned that Ladner submit a monthly report on his collection record.

Commissioner Lucien Kidd declined to second the motion and it died without vote.

Differences of opinion again flared when Carver read Kidd a letter from the State Health Officer concerning an apparent low fluoride content in city water supplies.

According to the letter, Carver said, the city's fluoridation was four tenths of one percent or less parts per million, compared to a state preference of at least one part per million.

Carver said the fluoride content was needed to offset tooth decay, especially in young people, a factor he said attested by the county's dentists, all of whom he had contacted by letter.

Stating the quality of the city's water supply was second to none on the Gulf Coast, Kidd said that even though the state was offering to split the cost, he noted a $5,000 ceiling on any proposed state funds.

"We have four wells to consider. We are looking at the installation of a considerable amount of equipment."

"Further, we have to consider the expense of the monitoring devices to maintain an even, regulated flow of fluoride to the water," Kidd allowed.

Carver cut short the argument, asking Kidd to investigate and report back.

"The health and welfare of our people is of prime importance," Carver said.

Ladner agreed with Carver, calling for "every effort" to be made, recommending the utilities commissioner "take immediate steps" to determine what could be done to increase the water supply's fluoride content.

The finance commissioner then quizzed the mayor on the quantity of complaints being received concerning the state of the city's streets.

Carver, however, replied that complaints were at a minimum and invited Ladner to refer all such items directly to him.

Not to be outdone, Ladner then criticized Carver's budget overrun.

Carver, defended his departments budget overruns by accusing Ladner and the council of shorting his budget to force the overrun.

A quick check into past minutes revealed a budget approved by Kidd and Ladner, had been instituted in spite of the mayor's "No" vote. Carver had, however, vetoed the proposed budget because a 5 percent cost of living allowance was not included.

In other business, the council passed a resolution asking the state parks department to stay a proposed camper rate hike at Buccaneer State Park, and also directed city engineers Burke and Associates, to review the proposed plans of Encore Estates without additional cost to the city.

Husband, wife fined placed on probation

Donald M. Jenkins and wife Sharel were given a $500 fine and five year suspended sentence, respectively Monday after the pair pleaded guilty to grand larceny and two counts of burglary.

Presiding Judge Leslie B. Grant fined Jenkins $500 on the lesser charge of grand larceny with an additional $35 to be paid as restitution for the Donald Marquar property.

Mrs. Jenkins was placed on probation for five years. Both were indicted last year and had earlier entered not guilty pleas through their attorney Cornelius Ladner.

In other developments, the trial of Jimmy Sullivan, charged with rape, was postponed until April 14 due to illness of John Scaffie, his attorney.

Cases scheduled to be heard next week include James Charles Jordan, charged with burglary and James C. White, aggravated assault. These cases will be presented April 12.

The murder trial of Jimmy Ray Fine, charged with the shooting death of his wife Sharon, will be heard April 13. Other cases scheduled that day include Charles Lee Payton, burglary and Joyce Depree, two counts of embezzlement.

On April 14, Judge Grant will hear cases against M.S. Helen Krumpal, shoplifting and Andrew Moffatt, Leo Moffatt, and Nathaniel Jones, all on separate charges of burglary.

Trials scheduled April 15 include Houston Dickerson, arson; Willie H. Nelson, aggravated assault and burglary; and Johnny Lee Terry, burglary.

Two plead guilty in loan company fraud

Norton Haas Jr., former president of Security Savings and Loan Association of Bay St. Louis and Gulfport, pled guilty in federal court Monday to charges of conspiring to defraud the company through illegal loans during the period Oct. 1971 to March 1976.

Haas and Harry W. Olsen Jr., a Gulfport real estate salesman, both entered guilty pleas before U.S. District Court Judge Harold Cox prior to jury selection in their case. Both had entered innocent pleas during earlier arraignments.

Haas and Olsen pleaded guilty to the first count of a six-count indictment returned against them a year ago. The indictment charged Haas with authorizing and making illegal loans to corporations in which he had interests or controlled.

Prominently named was the Century Land Co. Inc. which the indictment charged received some $175,000 in loans from the savings and loan company one year after Haas incorporated the company in Oct. 1971.

A third defendant, William V. Snyder of Ocean Springs, remained under indictment, but Asst. U.S. Atty. James Tucker said after the hearing Monday he intends to drop the charge against Snyder.

Cox allowed Haas and Olsen to remain free on bond pending the preparation of a pre-sentence report. After studying the report, Cox will sentence the two.

The maximum penalty for a conviction is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, or both.

The present officers of Security Savings and Loan, who took control in January of 1975, have a pending civil lawsuit claiming the company suffered losses estimated at more than $775,000 because of Haas' "fraudulent and dishonest acts."

Connally to address state Republicans

State Republican Chairman Clarke Reed announced today that former Texas Governor and Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally would make the keynote address at Saturday's Republican Party State Convention. Connally will speak at the Ramada Inn Coliseum in Jackson, which is the scene of the GOP Convention.

"We consider ourselves extremely fortunate to have Governor Connally make the keynote address," Reed said. "He is one of the most sought-after speakers in the country. Undoubtedly one of the nation's thought leaders, he has the vision and experience to give our delegates significant insight into the tasks facing the United States over the next few years."

Connally will be joined on the Republican Convention program by GOP Congressmen Thad Cochran and Trent Lott. The two second term Representatives will speak during the morning general session.

Reed said spectators would have to have a ticket to attend the Convention, including Governor Connally's address. Spectator tickets will be distributed on a first come, first served basis in the foyer of the Ramada Inn beginning at 8:00 A.M., Saturday. The address will follow lunch at approximately 1:00 P.M.

"There will be 518 delegates and alternate delegates," Reed said, "so the number of tickets will be very limited. The capacity of the Convention Hall is only about 700."

The GOP Convention will begin at 10:00 a.m.

Republicans will choose 30 delegates and 30 alternate delegates to represent Mississippi at the GOP National Convention in Kansas City. They will also choose a new 25 member State Executive Committee, select a slate of Presidential Electors, and a new National Committeeman and National Committeewoman. Additionally, they will adopt a platform and statement of principles.

Rocketdyne test fires newest shuttle engine

The first test of the second Space Shuttle Main Engine (SSME) was conducted Wednesday at the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL) in Hancock County, Miss.

The test was the first firing on 'Stand' A-2 since it was modified and reactivated for the Space Shuttle program.

The stand was used in testing second (S-II) stages of the Saturn V during the 1960s.

The SSME is being developed by the Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International Corp. under contract with the NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center.

Engine 0002, the first SSME with a flight-type engine-mounted controller, reached the programmed 1.5 seconds in the ignition test. It fired through a facility installed diffuser into the flame bucket.

The diffuser is used for altitude simulation when production engines are tested and throttled. The diffuser permits the engine with a flight-type nozzle to be throttled down to the minimum power level.

The current NASA plan is to fire each engine on the A-2 stand before it is used on a Shuttle flight. The A-2 stand is known as the Throttling Test Position.

Stand A-1, the Sea-Level Test Position, has been used for about a year in tests of the first SSME, a test version known as the Integrated Subsystem Test Bed (ISTB). Stand A-1, also used in the Saturn program, was modified for the Shuttle program.

Engine 0002 is of a flight configuration, essentially, but will not be flown. It is a developmental engine with additional instrumentation for test purposes.

Ex-salesman now pedals cancer message

By MIKE FLYNN

Michael Scavo, a 57-year-old salesman from Lone Pine, California, passed through Bay Saint Louis last Friday on his way to New York.

That sounds ordinary enough on the surface, but the extraordinary thing is that Michael Scavo is traveling by bike and that he has covered 2600 miles in 27 days for an average of about 100 miles a day.

Still pushing

Fifty seven-year-old Michael Scavo passed through Bay Saint Louis Friday as part of 2600 mile bicycle odyssey from Lone Pine, California to New York.

But even more significant than the distance and method of travel, is the traveler himself.

Scavo was a successful salesman three years ago when he was stricken with cancer of the larynx. The removal of his larynx saved his life but cost him the voice that had been so essential to his livelihood.

"I was stopped," he said, "but only temporarily."

Today Scavo is going strong. Even though his voice is coarse and uneven because of the esophageal method of speaking that he must use, he still possesses the ability to capture and hold the attention of an audience.

This bicycle trip is just an example of the active life he now leads. Scavo says this trip, "is my way of saying thank you to the American Cancer Society on behalf of the one and a half million people who have licked cancer and are enjoying life."

He talks with enthusiasm about the American Cancer Society, and about the kindness he received from his doctors in California.

Scavo was out in the desert in Death Valley three years ago enjoying the peace and solitude that region can offer. He began having trouble breathing so he got a friend to drive him 35 miles to the nearest hospital which was in Lone Pine.

There Dr. Walter Wilson did a tracheotomy and a biopsy of Scavo's throat. The biopsy was negative, but the 70 year-old Dr. Wilson thought it best to get another test. (Scavo says Wilson is one of the few doctors that will still make house calls. Some of his house calls take Wilson 100 miles out into Death Valley.)

Dr. Raymond Avall did the second biopsy at Loma Linda, California. Scavo was notified by mail that the tests were positive and that surgery to remove the cancerous larynx was required.

Scavo approached Avall about getting still another opinion.

"I've always been a gambler," he told Avall jokingly, "so why don't we get another opinion and see if we can't get two to one odds."

The facts were not to be ignored. He had cancer. He asked about the options open to him.

The options were to have the operation and possibly go on to live a productive life or to forego the operation and face certain death within six months.

Scavo underwent surgery at Southern Inyo Hospital in Lone Pine.

For two months after the operation he made no attempt to speak. He obeyed his surgeon's advice and waited. Those were two long months.

Scavo says, "I was overwhelmed with the kindness of the staff at the hospital. Their kindness impressed me and made my recovery easier."

Nurse Ella Mary Miles, the director of nursing at Southern Inyo, was especially kind. She gave Scavo a bike that had belonged to her son and when Scavo was well enough he rode the bike until it wouldn't ride anymore.

Finally the doctors said Scavo was ready to learn to speak. With their help, and with the help of pamphlets provided by the American Cancer Society, Scavo set out to learn esophageal speech.

Esophageal speech involves learning to take large amounts of air into the lungs and releasing it methodically enough to make speech patterns.

"My first word was SALT," Scavo remembers, "then COFFEE, then COFFEE CAKE...these words are special words to help learn the technique."

After months and hour after hour of practice, Scavo mastered esophageal speech.

Today Scavo can speak ex-temporarily for 30 to 60 minutes. He speaks before groups of two or 200. He has regained the drive that made him a good salesman before. His voice may not be as strong, but he certainly has the motivation necessary to be a success.

One of the points he tries to get across to the groups he addresses is that smoking is not good for you. He figures that he has smoked close to a quarter of a million cigarettes in his lifetime and that those cigarettes almost cost him his life.

His warning to smokers is, "If you smoke now and do get cancer, don't turn to your God and say why me. You have the chance to avoid cancer NOW."

Scavo also stresses the fact that survivors of cancer can and often do go on to lead productive lives, even after radical surgery.

"The rules (of life) are changed," he says, "but it's still the same ballgame."

Auto theft reported, gas stolen from pumps

Thefts accounted for seven of 13 calls handled by the Bay St. Louis police department during the period March 25-April 6, according to Police Chief Billy Carbonette.

Three thefts occurred March 25, when burglars got away with a blue 1965 Ford Mustang belonging to Joe Layne, 1000 Dunbar Ave.; nine flashing bulbs valued at $45 from the Coastal Auto advertising sign located at the intersection of deMontluzin and U.S. Highway 90; and taillights from a Department of Agriculture truck parked in front of Colonial Plaza on Highway 90.

Five dollars worth of gas was stolen from the self-service pump at the Washington Ave. and Highway 90 Majik Market March 28, and the student lounge at Our Lady's Academy was broken into and an undetermined amount of change taken from the vending machines March 30.

A number of household appliances and other miscellaneous items were taken from a residence on Easterbrook St. during a burglary April 1, and a child's ring with a red stone was stolen from 548 deMontluzin during an April 3 burglary.

Chief Carbonette investigated an attempted breaking and entering which occurred March 29 at Marquez's Lounge on S. Beach Blvd. He said thieves attempted to enter the building by breaking the rear door.

Three accidents occurred during the reporting period. The first happened March 30 in a two-car accident involving James Pollard and Mrs. Audrey Heine at the intersection of Highway 90 and Beach Dr. which resulted in no injuries and little damage to either car.

In the second accident, Peter Lamb lost control of his automobile and hit a light pole at St. Charles and Beach Blvd., however, there were no injuries.

There were also no injuries reported during an accident which occurred April 4 when a boat and trailer overturned while trying to turn the corner at the corner of Highway 90 and Main St.

In two apparently unrelated cases of vandalism, windows and a screen were broken with rocks at a home on Bienville St., and four male youths broke a vase and scattered flowers in St. Mary's Cemetery. Both incidents occurred April 1.

MEC chief downs state senate vote

The president of the Mississippi Economic Council said Senate action to end the State Tax Commission's efforts toward property tax equalization is an "unacceptable decision which flies in the face of the state's Constitution and statutes."

The statement by MEC President Walter L. Ellis III of Kosciusko followed a Senate vote to cut off funds from the Tax Equalization Division of the State Tax Commission and prohibit the Commission from spending any funds for reappraisal—a necessary step in efforts toward equalization of property assessments.

The Senate voted 23-20 to deny funds for equalization, but equalization proponents rallied enough strength to force another vote at week's end. The vote is expected to come this week.

Those 23 senators who voted to end efforts to equalize property assessments in Mississippi apparently overlooked the constitutional mandate that taxation be "uniform and equal," Ellis said. "It is obvious they received some bad advice."

The MEC president called upon the 28 senators to reconsider their votes in view of "the oaths of office they took to uphold the Constitution."

Ellis said he was "encouraging every taxpayer in Mississippi to call upon the senators to support constitutionally-required equalization."

"I believe those who by their votes disregard and ignore the state's Constitution should be held accountable for their actions," he said.

Ellis also said he commends Sen. Ellis Bodron of Vicksburg, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, for his efforts to restore funds for the Equalization Division; and he commends Rep. Charles Deaton of Greenwood, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, for his statements that he would attempt to restore the funds when the bill reaches the House.

Summer recreation programs planned for Buccaneer Park

Campers visiting Buccaneer State Park this summer may be in for an unexpected, although pleasant surprise.

Brain Nunnery and Diddy Tuinlan, park recreators, are in the process of assembling a summer program of events to feature local artists, dancers, musicians, and performers of all descriptions.

Nunnery said this week the two welcome any information which might lead to the discovery of new talent for their presentations.

"We want this entertainment to be as representative as possible and involve artists and performers of all types," said Nunnery. The recreator said access to the park's pavilion had been granted for activities requiring "a roof" and could be utilized in case of inclement weather as well.

Miss Tuinlan said she was particularly interested in the state park's "outdoor education" series, as well as the feasibility of introducing a children's theatre.

Both recreators may be contacted either in person at the park, or by phone at 467-3322.

Shaw elected GOP president

Crane Creek farmer Hildon Shaw was elected president of the Hancock County Republican Party Saturday at that group's county convention.

Elected with Shaw were Dr. A.K. Martinovich Jr., vice president, and Mrs. Evelyn McPhail, secretary.

Delegates elected to attend this week's state party convention and Congressional District caucus in Jackson are Mrs. Virginia Wagner and Mrs. Evelyn McPhail. Karl Goss and Virginia Gilbeau were elected alternates to the state convention.

Interviewed Tuesday, Shaw said he was very enthusiastic about the future of the two-party system within the county.

"The last gubernatorial election in Hancock County clearly indicated the changing mood of the voters," said Shaw, in reference to the bid of Gil Carmichael.

"We intend to make the county Republican Party an active organization, one staging regular meetings, and a viable entity," the county chairman said.

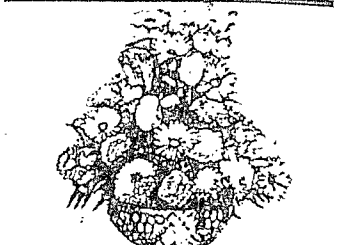

Shaw said the new executive would stage their first meeting following the return of the Jackson delegation.

"This sort of gathering lends itself to the exchange of ideas and we intend to take advantage of everything we can in our restructuring of the county operation," Shaw said. Shaw is married to the former Helen Spiers, also of the Sellers-Crane Creek Community.

Forester claims nation's timber supply in danger

"Recent court decisions could seriously reduce the future supply of our nation's timber, and ultimately lead to job losses and shortages of lumber, paper and other wood products," according to Benton H. Box, executive vice president of Southern Forest Institute.

Box was referring to application of an 1897 law, the so-called "Organic Act," on U.S. Forest Service holdings throughout the entire country. Basically, the law says that only dead, mature or "large growth" trees on U.S. Forest Service lands can be harvested and sold. It requires that each tree to be cut must be individually selected and marked before harvesting, and that every tree cut must be removed. Preservation groups have sued for enforcement of the law in several areas recently.

"This law ignores 75 years of progress in modern forest management based on better understanding of nature's methods of managing woodlands," Box said. "The law was written before the U.S. even had a forestry school. Since that time, modern forestry has advanced to the point that the law is no longer applicable. No one would consider managing modern transportation according to the technology of the 1890's, but this antiquated law could force costly and unwise restrictions on forest users." Box pointed out that if the law is applied nationally, it could result in a loss of about 15 percent of the nation's timber supply. "The effect could include severe stress on Southern forests through increased demands for which they're not ready," he added. The forest industry executive said restrictions could lead to shortages for building materials, which would deal a severe economic blow to the housing industry. "It's likely there would be a shortage of a wide variety of paper products, too," Box said.

He said an immediate effect would be felt by county and district school systems that receive revenue from nearby national forest holdings. Twenty-five percent of the money collected from timber sales on national forests are allocated to the school systems in counties where the forests are located.

"To reduce harvesting on national forests from 12 billion board feet to three billion will also hamper efforts to meet future wood demands," Box added. "The U.S. Government has already predicted an annual shortfall of 2.3 to 8.1 billion cubic feet by the year 2000."

However, the U.S. Forest Service says that such a shortage could be eliminated if timber production on government lands was doubled. Box concluded, "If the courts and Congress require enforcement of the Organic Act of 1897, that may never happen."

Southern Forest Institute points out that industry owns 13 percent of the total forest lands and produces 26 percent of the nation's timber needs. The federal government owns 18 percent of the forest base, with 15 percent of the production.

Industry's productivity rate is an average 52 cubic feet of wood per acre per year compared to the National Forest rate of only 30 cubic feet per year (1970 Figures). The largest portion of the nation's forests is owned by private landowners. They control 58 percent of the land and 52 percent of total production. The remaining 7 percent of production is on other public lands.

Ask the VA

Q - Does the VA education loan program apply to persons eligible for VA dependents' educational assistance?

A - Yes. Eligible dependents and veterans may borrow up to $800 per academic year to pursue a course leading to a standard college degree, or if enrolled in a course leading to a professional or vocational objective which requires at least six months to complete. The interest-bearing loan is based upon financial need and is available only to those who are unable to obtain a student loan under the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Q - I used my automobile grant when the maximum was $2,800. I understand the amount now is $3,300. Can I receive the additional $500 difference?

A - No. However, the law does provide for repair or replacement of adaptive equipment necessary for safe operation of an automobile acquired under this benefit.

Q - How much money may I borrow on the GI loan?

A - There is no limit that the lender can loan as long as the house will appraise for the selling price, your credit is good, and your income is sufficient to meet the payments. The VA will guarantee a maximum of $17,500 on your loan.

Serve pineapple--the hospitality fruit

On his second voyage to the New World, Christopher Columbus discovered pineapple for the civilized world. Most historians agree that pineapple originated in Brazil, however, half of today's pineapple supply is produced in the Pacific Islands.

Because fresh pineapple is relatively expensive most of the year, the better values offered in the spring are often overlooked. Pineapple yields less of its purchased weight as edible fruit than apples, oranges and strawberries.

The best way to select a ripe pineapple is to thump it gently, being careful not to bruise it. Fruit that is well ripened and full of juice will give a dull solid sound. A hollow thud signifies a poorly matured sour pineapple.

Color is not a sure indication of ripeness. Mexican Pineapples can be deliciously ripe and sweet on the inside even though they appear green on the outside. Mexican pineapples never achieve the golden glow of the Hawaiian varieties and they do not grow to the size you expect from Hawaiian pineapples. But they can be every bit as tasty.

Another pineapple variety is the red Spanish pineapple. Grown in Puerto Rico, this variety varies in color from reddish-brown to orange.

Regardless of the Pineapple variety you choose, handle the fruit as little as possible. The ripe fruit bruises easily. If the pineapple you select is slightly underripe, allow it to ripen at room temperature. When fully ripened, it may be wrapped to prevent fragrance from transferring to other foods in the refrigerator.

If fresh pineapple does not suit your fancy, then choose a canned variety. Canned pineapple comes in various forms. Sliced rings of pineapple, cut from cylinders of fruit, are popular for salads and decorative purposes. Chunks of pineapple are also in the market. This form of pineapple is made when thick slices are cut into bite-size pieces.

While tidbits are smaller wedges of pineapple cut up, crushed pineapple is just what the name implies. This form is especially good for adding to breads, puddings, pancakes, etc. Spears of pineapples are also available. This is long strips of pineapple cut lengthwise from the cylinder of the fruit.

Whatever your preference, whatever the occasion, use pineapple generously. If you would like a diagram for cutting fresh pineapple, call the Extension Office, 467-5456.

Conservatives laud

Lott's voting stand

WASHINGTON -- Congressman Trent Lott has won praise from the American Conservative Union and the Americans for Constitutional Action for his voting record in the first session of the 94th Congress.

VA claims office to tour state

Veterans and their families in Mississippi will benefit from the Veterans Administration's one-stop, mobile van service during the month of April, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Richard L. Roudebush said today.

The 1976 itinerary for the VA rolling office in Mississippi includes the first appearance in Meridian on April 1. Since mid-1972 ten red, white and blue vans have crisscrossed the continental United States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The vans are fitted and staffed as VA offices and are scheduled into communities remote from permanent VA facilities. Visits generally are for one day with the van positioned in a public square, shopping center or other convenient location.

"All veterans and their families are encouraged to visit with the benefits counselors in the vans," Roudebush said. "We're particularly interested in reaching the Vietnam-era veteran who has not made use of his benefits."

Assistance given veterans and their dependents includes education and training, home loans, insurance, VA pensions and compensation. Counselors also can arrange for treatment at VA health-care facilities.

Eighteen Mississippi communities will be visited by one of the mobile vans following its arrival in Meridian on April 1.

Through the end of 1975, the VA mobile vans had traveled 378,547 miles while visiting 3,639 cities. Benefits counselors conducted 184,072 interviews.

USM lists Bay winter graduates

HATTIESBURG, — A total of 333 students completed degree requirements during the Winter Quarter at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Those graduating from Bay St. Louis are Russell Wallace Chapman Jr., B.S.; Janelle Marie L. Griffin, B.S.; Verna Maxine Haas, B.S.; Conrad L. Mauffray Jr., B.S.; Ann Victoria Miller, B.S.; Edgar Gilbert Nybo, B.S.; Donna Maria Smith, B.S.; Jerry Eugene Wiggins, Bachelor of Science in Business Administration; and Donna Marie Williams, B.S.B.A.

Lott received an 86 percent conservative rating on ACU's Key Issued Index, which was based on 30 selected votes taken in the House during 1975. He was rated at 82 percent on ACA's Consistency Index and Led Mississippi's congressional delegation in votes for local self-government, private ownership, and individual liberty.

"The American Conservative Union commends you for having scored 86 percent in our rating of Congress for 1975," an ACU congratulatory letter to Lott read. "Your voting record shows you have consistently voted to stem inflation, cut excessive government spending, reduce the Federal bureaucracy and strengthen national defense."

The letter also voiced ACU congratulations for Lott's votes "to uphold the American traditions of limited government, fiscal integrity and a strong national defense."

ACA used 28 selected House votes on such issues as the federal debt limit and federal pay raises. Lott voted "right" on both issues. "Included in the tabulation are the recorded votes on those legislative measures which, in the opinion of Americans for Constitutional Action, have a significant bearing on the preservation of the spirit and principles of the Constitution as these were defined by Founding Fathers of our Republic," the ACA publication explained.

CHAMPVA provides medical care to children of veterans

A large number of children of totally disabled veterans are currently receiving medical care from private physicians and hospitals through the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Veterans Administration (CHAMPVA), according to Chester L. Curvey, Veterans Service Officer for Hancock County.

This cost-sharing program is an extension of the military's Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS). The military program permits dependents of active duty and retired members to also obtain civilian medical care on the cost-sharing plan, Curvey said.

Minor children of veterans who are rated permanently and totally disabled by the Veterans Administration because of diseases or injuries which were incurred or aggravated during a period of active military service are eligible for CHAMPVA medical care. Entitlement also extends to the minor children of deceased veterans when the deaths were caused by disabilities which were incurred during military service.

Curvey said inpatient hospital care, the eligible child or his custodian is liable for 25 percent of the total bill incurred, while CHAMPVA, through a commercial carrier, will pay the remaining 75 percent. Out-patient medical expenses are handled in the same reimbursement manner once a required annual deduction is met.

The age of 18 years generally will terminate entitlement for a child under this program. An exception is made, however, when a child is over 18 and is enrolled in an approved course of education. In such instances, the termination date is age 23. Marriage will terminate the child's eligibility at any age. Permanently disabled children may remain eligible indefinitely.

Inquiries concerning eligibility and application for CHAMPVA coverage may be made with the local Veterans County Service Officer.

CHILD-PROOF OF DEPENDENCY
A veteran having a compensation rating of 50 percent or more is entitled to additional monthly compensation for his dependent children. Veterans and widows in receipt of pension or DIC benefits are also entitled to additional monthly payments for dependent children.

The term "child" as defined in Paragraph 101, Title 38, U.S. Code means an unmarried child who is under age 18, or is between the ages of 18 and 23 and pursuing a course of instruction at an approved educational institution, or became permanently disabled prior to age 18. He or she may be a legitimate child, legally adopted child, stepchild who is a member of the veteran's household or was at the time of his death, or illegitimate child where proof of relationship is established.

To establish a legitimate child as a dependent, it is necessary to submit proof of birth, if a prior marriage is indicated by either the veteran or spouse. If there has been no prior marriage, date and place of birth of the child is sufficient. In order to establish a stepchild, proof of birth is required, along with proof of marriage between the parent and the veteran, and evidence that the child is a member of the veteran's household.

Dependency of an illegitimate child may be established by submitting proof of birth and a statement signed by the veteran acknowledging the relationship. If veteran is deceased, secondary evidence may include public record of birth, church record of baptism, statements of persons, information from service records, or records of public agencies acknowledging the veteran to be the father.

In establishing an adopted child, proof of the adoption should be submitted. A child who is a member of the veteran's household at the time of death and is adopted by the spouse within two years after the death of the veteran will be considered the adopted child of the veteran.

When a child reaches age 18 and is still attending school, VA Form 21-674 should be completed and forwarded to the VA. The VA will pay benefits for the child as long as he or she continues in school.

A child who becomes permanently incapable of self-support prior to age 18 will be considered a child by the VA until death. When the child reaches age 18, medical evidence should be submitted to establish the helplessness. If a dependent child marries, VA benefits are terminated, effective the end of the year in which the marriage occurs. When a child is between the ages of 18 and 23 years and is enrolled in school, VA benefits are terminated effective the last day of the month in which school attendance is discontinued. In such instances, summer vacation is not considered as a discontinuance of schooling.

All sports represented at Ole Miss summer camp

Dennis Waite, athletic director at Tupelo High School, will once again be on the staff for the sixth annual Ole Miss Summer Sports Camp program.

The announcement of the addition of Waite was made Friday by Rebel head football coach and camp director Ken Cooper.

Waite, head football coach and golf coach at Tupelo, will serve as instructor for the boys golf camp which runs May 30-June 4. He served in the same capacity last summer.

The sports camp program features football and baseball camps in two weekly sessions running May 30-June 4 and June 6-11 with tennis for boys also May 30-June 4.

Girls tennis will be offered with girls golf, a new addition, the week of June 13-18.

Basketball camp dates are June 13-18 for girls and June 20-25 for boys.

Waite, a native of Leroy, Ala., played professional baseball for six years in the St. Louis Cardinal organization, earning his degree from Southern Mississippi in 1966.

He joined the Tupelo High coaching staff in '66 as an assistant coach in football and basketball and as head basketball coach in 1968, his Golden Wave team won the State AA title.

Waite became head football coach in 1973. He also serves as assistant principal at Tupelo High.

In his sixth year as golf coach, his teams are perennially among the best in the state. Tupelo won two Big Eight Conference golf titles under Waite and the Wave have won the District championship in each of the past five years.

Nose Makes News

Are modern-day methods the best methods?

For one major industry, the answer, it seems, is "no." The industry: distilled spirits.

The Wall Street Journal, discussing the on-the-job assets of Jimmy Laing, chief whisky blender for the internationally-famed Chivas Regal, observes in a dispatch from Scotland:

"Mr. Laing's meticulous work habits are typical of an industry that prides itself on centuries-old production methods so exciting that something as minor as a dent in a still or a slight variation in water temperature has been known to ruin an entire batch of whisky."

The article notes that the process used to produce Scotch whisky is "archaic" even though "whisky making is a complex chemical process with many variables."

One can argue about today's speed-up production methods versus the industry's centuries-old techniques, but the latter, with their human touch, are more refreshing, it would seem. Laing's personal sense of smell and taste provide better quality control than a bank of computers.

THE COOKIE JAR THAT WON'T STAY FULL

That's what will happen at your house when the cookies are delicious Sesame Crisps. Made with bite-size crispy rice squares, the cereal helps add a crisp, crunchy taste. Their good buttery flavor goes well with cold or hot beverages and makes them the perfect snack for cookie lovers of all ages.

Bake a batch, fill the jar and see for yourself how quickly these tasty cookies disappear.

SESAME CRISPS

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups Rice Chex cereal (bite-size crispy rice squares) crushed to 1 1/4 cups (use as 1/2 and 3/4 cups)
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 egg
- 2 1/2 tablespoons sesame seeds

Preheat oven to 375°. Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Stir in 1/2 cup cereal crumbs. Set aside. Cream butter and sugar. Add vanilla and egg. Beat well. Add flour mixture. Mix well.

Combine remaining 3/4 cup cereal crumbs and sesame seeds. Drop dough by tablespoons onto crumbs. Shape into ball as dough is rolled in crumbs. Bake 8-10 minutes or until lightly browned. Let stand one minute before removing from baking sheet. Makes about 4 dozen 2 1/2" cookies.

Shrimp Super With Vegetable

Every super vegetable is a natural for being shrimp-stuffed or harmonized in a dish with canned shrimp. Eggplant, that royal purple cousin to the potato and tomato, does it beautifully. This duo combines to make a gourmet treat and yet is hearty and so satisfying.

SHRIMP STUFFED EGGPLANT

- 1 can (4 1/2 ounces) shrimp
- 2 eggplants weighing about 1 pound each
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 garlic cloves, sliced
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne
- pepper
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 cup seasoned bread crumbs

Drain shrimp. Preheat oven to 350 degrees; bake whole eggplants 40-45 minutes. In a sauté pan sauté onion and garlic in butter about 8 minutes. Blend and cook with flour, milk, seasonings into a thick sauce. Add cheese and set aside. Cut eggplants in half. Holding stem ends, scoop out and chop pulp, reserving shells. Combine pulp, sauce, crumbs, and shrimp. Refill shells; sprinkle with plain buttered crumbs. Wrap skin area in aluminum foil; return to hot (425 degrees) oven about 15 minutes. Serve in foil, 4 servings.

- 3/4 cup soft bread crumbs
- 3 tablespoons catsup
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Original Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons oil

- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 cup carrots cut into 1/2-inch thick slices
- 1 can (1 lb.) baked beans in tomato sauce
- 1 package (9 oz.) frozen cut green beans
- 1/2 cup alphabet or other noodles

In a medium bowl lightly combine beef, bread crumbs, catsup, egg, salt and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Shape into about 20 meatballs. In a large skillet heat oil; brown meatballs on all sides. Remove and set aside. In a medium saucepan dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water. Add carrots; simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. County launches Child-find program

A Child-Find Program, funded by the State Department of Education under Title VI, was launched this week in Hancock's county school district under the direction of Harlin Hill, federal coordinator.

Purpose of the program, according to Hill, is to "census the communities in the county to find unserved handicapped children." Assisting Hill will be Miss Carolyn Phillips and Miss Cynthia Henderson, recent graduates in the field of special education.

Hill said the team plans to carry out the program through a "public awareness push" using the media, house to house canvassing, schools, churches, and any other services available to locate children who aren't receiving an education.

Hill said diagnostic services will be provided for children located through the program who may be mentally or physically handicapped, retarded, or have learning disabilities.

"We also plan to coordinate with service organizations including the Welfare Department, Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, and local civic groups to provide needed services to these children," he added.

Persons needing additional information concerning the program, or who have information on an unserved child should contact Hill or his assistants, at the County Superintendent of education office.

"If any child has special needs of any kind that aren't being met," Hill said, "we want to know who and where he is so that we can help him."

Social Security notes

Annual report of earnings due April 15

People under 72 who earned over $2,520 and got one or more monthly social security retirement, dependent, or survivors checks in 1975 must submit an annual report of their earnings to social security by April 15, according to Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

The report shows how much was earned in wages and self-employment income last year by people who got monthly social security payments—as well as how much they expect to earn this year.

"The report will be used to determine if people were paid the correct amount of social security benefits for 1975,"

Wofford said. "It will also be used to adjust their monthly 1976 social security payments according to their estimated earnings."

Full social security benefits could be paid to eligible people in 1975 if they earned $2,520 or less for the year. But no matter how much they earned for the year, they could be paid their full social security benefits for any month they earned $210 or less and didn't do substantial work in their own business.

The figures for 1976 are $2,760 for the year and $230 a month.

"People who file an annual report late or don't file one that's due may suffer a penalty," Wofford said. People who were 72 or over in all months of 1975 don't need to file an annual report of their earnings.

"If you have questions about the annual report or need an earnings report form, call or write any social security office," Wofford said.

Q. A few months ago, during the worst of the recession, I was almost laid off. It was a tough time and it got me thinking... what would have happened to my life insurance if I had been temporarily unable to pay the premiums on my policy?

A. You could have taken a loan from the cash value of your policy. This would have tied you over the emergency period and enabled you to pay your premiums. Your policy may contain an "automatic loan provision" that, if you request it, will do this for you automatically. Your policy thus remains in force until you would have been able to pick up your premiums again and pay back the loan.

This is one of the ways in which cash values provide an important margin of safety. Interestingly, during the depression years, many men kept up their life insurance this way and consequently today they and their families still have this protection.

TVtips

AVOIDING SERVICE
You can save money and help avoid the frustration of sending your TV out to be serviced if you follow these simple maintenance tips suggested by experts at General Electric.

1. Do not cover airholes in the cabinet that allow air to circulate for cooling.
2. Turn set off when not in use.
3. Protect portables from falls by using a sturdy table or stand. A set can be damaged by physical shock.
4. When your set is installed, pry serious attention to the antenna. A cheap one might save you money, but if it is inadequate for the area you will be shortchanging yourself.
5. Follow instructions in your user manual to tune your set correctly. If you've lost your manual on a color set, start by turning the color all the way down and then all the way up and white set controls, brightness and contrast. Then turn up the color control and adjust for a natural flesh tone.

Ole Miss season ticket sales launched

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 8: - Anticipating one of the largest season ticket sales in Rebel history, Ole Miss athletic ticket manager Danny Hooker announced Tuesday the launching of football tickets for the 1976 season.

The mailing of a record 30,000 ticket application folders was completed Tuesday. The folders provide detailed information on the season ticket plan and the priorities governing the purchase of tickets to the 11 games.

"We're expecting one of the best years in ticket sales we've ever had," said Hooker. "We've already experienced a large number of inquiries before the mailouts, and based on last season's finish, it should be an excellent selling spring and summer."

In their second season under Rebel head coach Ken Cooper, the Rebels won five of their final six games for a 6-5 record and a second place tie in the Southeastern Conference. Cooper received four Coach of the Year awards for that finish.

Folders and computerized order blanks have been forwarded to dues paying "M." Club alumni, Loyalty Foundation contributors, dues paying alumni, members of the faculty and staff, other alumni and all others who purchased tickets last season.

The sale of tickets will be conducted by mail order only from April 7 - August 31. Over the counter sales will begin Sept. 1.

This fall the Rebels will play Alabama, Auburn and Mississippi State in Jackson, Tulane and Georgia on campus, Memphis State in Memphis, Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg, South Carolina in Columbia, Vanderbilt in Nashville, L.S.U. in Baton Rouge and Tennessee in Knoxville.

Hooker emphasized that the season ticket plan covers the purchase of tickets to the games on campus and in Jackson. All applications received within the April 7 - May 31 priority periods for season tickets will be considered a season ticket order provided an identical number of tickets to each game is ordered. Aside from Blue and Gold members of the Loyalty Foundation, there will be a limit of four season tickets per family until July 1.

Tickets may be purchased on a graduated payment plan. Checks with a current date and dated thereafter on June 1 and July 1, each one a third of the total amount, or through the use of Bank Americard or Master Charge will be accepted.

Payment of ticket orders by personal checks will be accepted only until Aug. 4. Thereafter, payment must be by cashiers check, money order, Bank Americard or Master Charge.

Priorities governing the sale of season tickets are as follows: Priority Group One, May 1-15-1, Dues paying 'M'

Club Alumni; Loyalty Foundation donors
3, Dues paying alumni; 4, Non-dues paying alumni; May 16-31, the general public.

Individual game ticket orders fall into priority group two, with the dates of June 1-15 and June 16-30 established for the same categories.

All applications received prior to the opening date of the sale for any priority group will be dated as of the first day of the sale for that group. A limit of four tickets per game will be placed on non-season orders until July 1. After that date, there will be no limit to the number of tickets which may be purchased to any game.

Reserved seat tickets are $8.00 to all games.

The 1976 schedule follows:

Bonding company okays work

The reconstruction of Waveland's streets following excavations for sewer installation, got another boost this week when Raymond H. White of Lewis and Eaton, the city's engineers, informed council Tuesday of a $1,100 square yard paving authorization from the bonding company.

Council discussion arose concerning the method of payment for black-top work as some of the streets had been torn up on more than one occasion.

A letter from the Waveland Elementary School's Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) was read, along with a reply from Mayor Longo.

Means employed to force sewer system connections.

In his response, Mayor Longo said the rates were authorized by the board of aldermen, the capital expenditures required referendum, the operating structure was likewise authorized by the aldermen, the meter readers—used scooters, and the work crews used a truck, that no advertising took place, and the penalties for non-connection were provided by law.

He thanked the group for their interest and expressed his appreciation to the council.

Still on utilities, aldermen set a $25 connection fee for gas following a voluntary cut-off.

In non-utility affairs, council accepted the claim docket - in the amount of $28,242; pledged $300 to the Waveland Miss Hospitality pageant; approved $10 advertisements in Sidelines Club and Christ Episcopal Day School publications; voted to ask for bids on a pick-up truck for the sewer department, carpet, and a walkway cover for the Waveland library, and a grader.

Further, they decided to renegotiate a garbage pick-up contract with Buccaneer State Park, should a new request for weekend service be forwarded to council in writing; and again discussed the controversial St. Joseph Street-downtown access road development proposals.

White said Travelers' Indemnity Co., had authorized the paving contractor, Huey Stockstill Contractor, Inc., to undertake the work, and that he, White, had in turn computed a list of immediate needs based on the necessity, of providing for the public safety and protection of existing streets.

Signed by Frank Shattuck, the letter said the PTA was interested in ascertaining whether utilities could be offered to the consumer at lower rates. It asked detail on rate structure authorization, meter reading methods, and reader transportation, the cost of system advertising, and means employed to force sewer system connections.

In his response, Mayor Longo said the rates were authorized by the board of aldermen, the capital expenditures required referendum, the operating structure was likewise authorized by the aldermen, the meter readers—used scooters, and the work crews used a truck, that no advertising took place, and the penalties for non-connection were provided by law.

Cited for immediate attention were, Coleman from Railroad to St. Joseph; Fell between Sandy and Tide, Surf at Fell, Alken Road, five, unspecified lateral crossings—said to have been authorized by the city; and the following intersections: Nicholson and Central, Bienville and Beach, Whispering Pines and Beach; Lakewood and Central; Lakeside and Central; Nicholson and Jeff Davis, Nicholson and Henderson, Nicholson and Old Spanish Trail, Nicholson and McLaurin, Mollere and Central, Mollere and Beach, Hillcrest and Central, Coleman and Beach, Farrar and Fell No. 2, Pine Ridge and Central, Hoffman and Central, Waveland and Fell, and St. Joseph and Central.

Design your garden to meet your own needs. Careful arrangement will lessen your work and increase your returns. Planting seed and plants at random always results in waste and disappointment.

Consider the method of cultivation in designing the garden. Where the work is done with a tractor, the arrangement should provide the longest practical rows. Where cultivation is done by hand, short rows give a sense of accomplishment as the work on each is completed. Also, consider the slope of the land. On land that slopes, the rows should run at right angles to the slope, especially on light soils which have a tendency to erode. Where the land is uneven, the rows should be contoured.

The rows for small growing vegetables may be closer together for hand cultivation than for powered equipment. Do not plant in double rows on a bed unless you used some weed control. You can control the size of many root crops by the space you allow between plants in the row. You can increase the yield from a small plot of ground, by reducing the distance between the rows, but remember that weeding and harvesting will be difficult. Also, water and fertilizer needs are greater and poor air circulation around the plants increases the chances of leaf disease.

Permanent crops such as asparagus should be planted where they will not interfere with the annual land preparations. Season-long crops such as tomatoes, okra, pepper and eggplant should be planted together where they will not interfere with short term crops and replanting. Tall growing vegetables such as corn, okra, pole beans and tomatoes should be planted where they will not shade or interfere with the growth of smaller crops.

Corn does better when planted in a block of rows rather than a long single row.

Where possible consider planting heavy feeding, moderate feeding, and light feeding vegetables in groups and fertilize the garden according to group needs. Use wide spacing between rows and in the rows whenever the moisture supply is likely to be deficient. Row and plant spacing can be close if the plants' requirements for water and nutrients are adequately provided. Vine crops thinned to single plants should be closer than when two or more are left in a hill.

Rows may run north-south or east-west, but they should conform to the contours

Chewing Insects

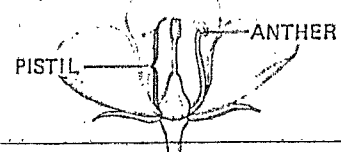

A Little Pollen Goes a Long Way

Pollination — the transfer of pollen in a flower — is necessary for many of our garden vegetables to produce.

In crops where you eat the leaves (greens, spinach, cabbage) and roots (beets, carrots, and radishes) pollination is not important for the production of what you eat. But in vegetables where you eat the seed, developing fruit, or ripened fruit (corn, beans, melons) pollination is essential.

Pollen may be moved from the flower's anther to the pistil in one of three ways. Corn pollen is carried by wind, falling from the tassels to the silks of the ears. Anything that prevents this wind transfer of pollen causes poorly developed ears of corn. Corn planted in single rows loses most of its pollen.

That's why it is good to plant corn in blocks of short rows rather than 1 or 2 very long rows. High temperatures and drought may not interfere with the transfer of pollen in corn, but either can prevent proper pollination and also result in poorly developed ears.

All of the beans, peas, and tomatoes are self-pollinated.

That means the transfer of pollen takes place in the flower without the assistance of wind or insects. Flowers of these crops are arranged so that when pollen is shed in the flower, it falls on the pistil of the same flower.

The rest of our garden vegetables — cucumbers, eggplant, peppers, squash and melons — are insect pollinated. In these vegetables it is necessary for a pollinating insect, honeybee, or bumble bee to transfer pollen from the anther to the pistil. When a bee visits a flower, the bee is dusted with pollen that rubs off on the pistil of the same flower or the next flower visited. Sometimes the pollen is in the same flower as the pistil (eggplant and pepper) but in others the pollen is produced in flowers without pistils (cucumbers, squash and melons).

Bees are often seen on vegetables that are wind and self-pollinated but the bees are actively feeding on or gathering nectar and pollen rather than pollinating. Since pollinating insects are so important in the garden it is very important that you consider them when applying insecticides. Choose those which are least toxic to bees and apply them late in the day when bees are not actively working in the garden.

Vegetables which are self and insect pollinated often suffer from lack of pollination just as wind pollinated corn does. High temperatures, shade and insufficient moisture often result in abnormal pollen that does not behave normally and results in lack of fruit development. Lack of proper pollination or the transfer of insufficient pollen results in poorly shaped fruit.

Watering

Vegetables require about 1 inch of water per week in the form of rain or irrigation during the growing season. Gardens in light sandy soils may require as much as 2 inches of water per week in mid-summer.

Adequate soil moisture is important for seed germination, uniform growth and productivity. The most critical periods for adequate moisture are seed germination and early growth, and flower and fruit development.

SPRINKLERS

You have several choices of garden sprinklers, ranging from the simple garden hose with a spray nozzle to semi-automatic equipment. Many portable lawn sprinklers are adequate for the garden. Adjust the rate of water application so that it is not faster than it can enter the soil. Water applied too fast will puddle, causing soil compaction and crusting or, run off resulting in erosion.

Place the sprinkler so that plants do not interfere with the pattern of application. This often means mounting the sprinkler above the tops of the plants. Small cans placed throughout the garden will measure the amount of water applied and show the overlap necessary to approach an even application of water.

Water with a sprinkler early enough in the day to allow enough time for the foliage to dry before night. This will help prevent the development and spread of foliar diseases. Each watering should wet the top 3 to 5 inches of soil. Frequent light waterings result in shallow rooting, susceptibility to damage by drought and plants that are easily blown over.

Are you covered with insurance if your home burns or is the victim of a robbery or vandalism?

If the answer is "no", we can offer you a complete, comprehensive insurance policy that will repay you for damages resulting from fire, theft, flood and other accidents. Don't let disaster destroy you.

Up, up and away

Guy Jerrell of Gulfview School tucks up feet on way to another blue ribbon in long jump event at Special Olympics on Saturday in Milner Stadium. In line for turn on mat are Robert Young also of Gulfview, and sorta' peeking around Jerrell, Barry Kirkland of North Bay.

"I did it!"

Dawn Kendall grabs for her ribbon as the wind in Milner Stadium flips it to one side. If smiles can tell a story, this one says it all.

Wins 53 ribbons

North Bay sweeps Special Olympics

North Bay Special Education classes captured 53 ribbons Saturday to rate high among the leaders at the regional special olympics at Milner Stadium in Gulfport.

Gulfview School's contingent were also among the leaders, with several of their students being pinned with the coveted blue ribbon.

A breakdown of North Bay honors shows 19 blue ribbons, 12 white, and 12 red. Additionally, six competitors topped fourth place and four others recorded honorable mentions.

Blue ribbon winners now move to Jackson to compete in state competition.

North Bay students gaining Special Olympics honors were: Emmett Ellis, Andy Galloway, James Jeanfreau, Barry Kirkland, Antoinell McKay, Franklin Reed, Diane Saucier, Lucy Saucier, Deneen Simpkins, Rose Thomas, and James Simpkins.

Also, Patricia Bell, Leslie Benoit, John Dougherty, Angela Farve, Ronald Galloway, James Ginn, Amy Saucier, Margo Saucier, Rita Saucier, Ronnie Verdon, Rodney Washington.

And, James Gillum, Troy Williams, Wanda Beam, Dawn Kendall, and Sal Pavolini.

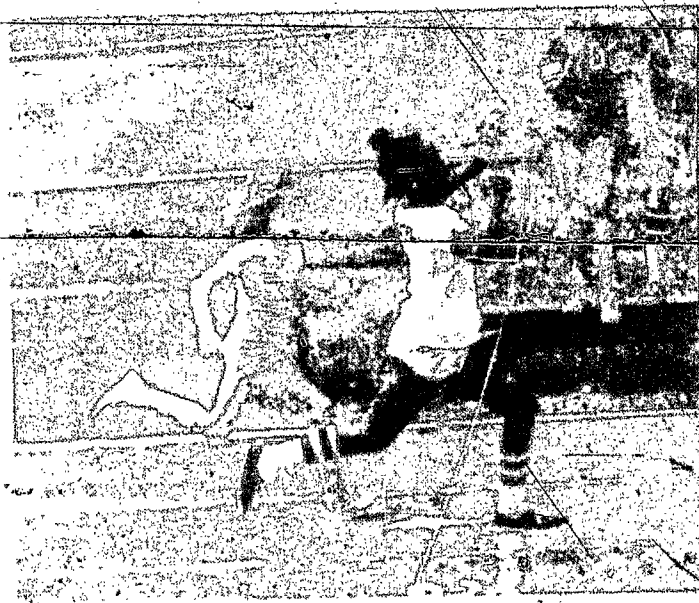

The Special Olympics program is designed to supplement special education classes. Endorsed by such bodies as the Mississippi Governor's Office of Education and Training, the State Department of Education, the State Department of Mental Health, the Mississippi Jaycees and Jaycettes, Mississippi Association for Retarded Citizens, Mississippi Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation; Mississippi Recreation and Parks Association, and the Mississippi Junior Auxiliary, the state effort is coordinated by the University of Southern Mississippi's Department of Special Education and School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. It is this latter group that is sanctioned by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, national sponsors.

Designed to improve the daily motor functioning of the special education student, the program's directors state other facets are community concern, and above all to illustrate to the competing children that they "can do it!"

"As Special Olympics child improves his or her performance in the gymnasium or on the playing field, he also improves in the classroom, at home, and eventually on the job," according to Eunice Kennedy Shriver, president, Special Olympics, Inc.

Triumphant yell

Winner of 50-yard dash gives out with yell of triumph as she flies through tape with both feet off ground.

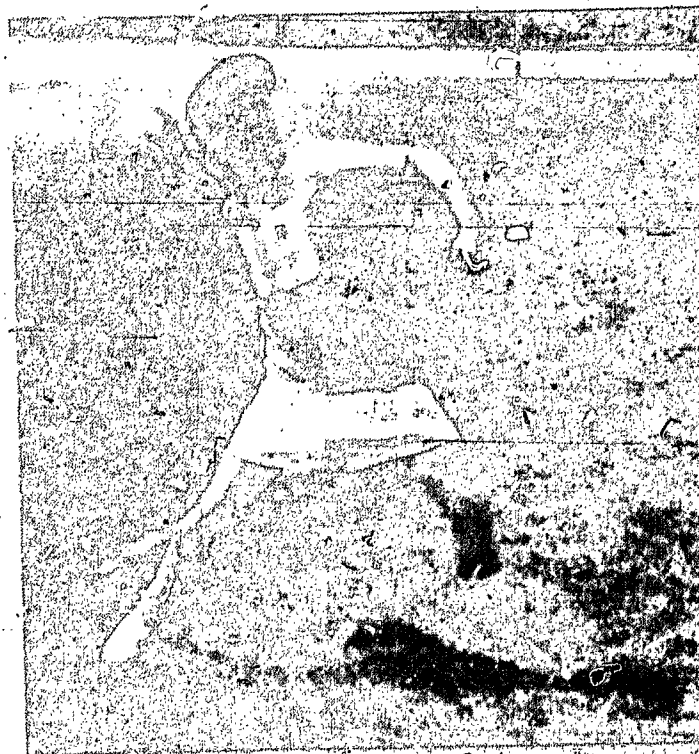

Big day

Standing on the very top of the olympic prize stand, how can one describe "the" pleasure being felt by Lucy Saucier, right, after having been pinned with the famed blue ribbon for her efforts on the long jump at Saturday's Special Olympics? Indeed, it is a big day!

Winners' stand

Amy Saucier, closest to the sky on winner's stand at Saturday's Special Olympics in Milner Stadium, won two first place blue ribbons. Here she has just been "pinned" with her first win acknowledgement by Ms. Charlotte Orr, director, Mississippi Learning Resource Center. Ms. Orr is pinning second place, silver ribbon, on Rita Saucier, also of North Bay.

Leans into job

Emmett Ellis leans back to make yardage in the softball throw. The "Big 19" scored a first and won the blue for North Bay.

North Bay Tiger

Number 1 on her sweater and a North Bay Tiger tag on her sun visor, Special Olympics fan Patricia Bell, pauses in cheering friends on to victory to acknowledge photographer. Patricia also won some ribbons of her own for fancy footwork in 50-yard dash.

Gate break

Breaking through the gate, Special Olympics runners peep for positions in the 100-yard event at Saturday's Special Olympics.

Moment of joy

Wanda Beam, center, has just scored a second place on the softball throw event. Her joy is obvious as she acknowledges the cheers of her school.

MR AND MRS RANDALL JACKSON

Spiers-Jackson

Miss Karen Vette Spiers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Ray Spiers of Bay St. Louis, and Randall Harold Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jackson of Lakeshore, were married at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 27, at Old Spanish Trail Baptist Church.

Rev. Jewel Lee Prince performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of gladiolus and carnations.

Mrs. Terrence Asher, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and a program of Nuptial music during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire style gown of lace and chiffon over bridal satin made by her grandmother, Mrs. George T. Spiers.

The lace bodice featured long sleeves ending in points over the hands and the chiffon skirt flowed into a cathedral length train. Her full length veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of lace flowers. She carried a bouquet of miniature white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Joanna Spiers attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Mrs. Marlene Jackson of Venice, La., and the groom's sisters, Mrs. Michael Spiers and Mrs. Tyler Spiers, both of Bay St. Louis.

Bridesmaids wore floored nylon empire style gowns in shades of green, lavender, blue and pink with matching flower headpieces and carried bouquets of white miniature carnations and baby's breath interspersed with ribbon streamers in pastel shades.

Flower girls were Lora Morgan, cousin of the bride, and Marie Spiers, the bride's niece.

Marlin Jackson was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Glen Spiers and Pat Williams both of Bay St. Louis, and David Bennett of Venice, La. Ushers were Michael E. Spiers of Bay St. Louis, and Eric Morgan.

Douglas Spiers, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

A reception followed at the home of the bride where Mrs. Spiers received guests wearing a floor length apricot polyester lace dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage. The mother of the groom chose a long polyester floral print dress, white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The bride's table held a four-tiered wedding cake trimmed with yellow roses. Carnations in pastel colors and fern encircled the bottom tier and a traditional bride and groom ornament decorated the top tier. Silver candelabra were on either side.

For her traveling outfit the bride chose a navy blue dress and white accessories. An orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The couple will reside in Lakeshore, Miss.

Birth defects counter program check given

The National Foundation-March of Dimes has presented a check for $53,559.00 to the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson for programs designed to reduce the toll of birth defects. This represents payment of the grants for the first six months of 1976.

$27,105.00 to the Department of Pediatrics and $26,453.00 to the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Dr. John E. Rawson, director of the Newborn Center at the University Medical Center, also serves as Mississippi March of Dimes chairman. Commenting on

The National Foundation grants to the University Medical Center, Dr. Rawson said:

"We want to decrease the number of Mississippi babies born with brain damage and to recognize, as early as possible, which babies have long-term problems — birth defects — so they can have appropriate treatment.

"Also we must continue to decrease newborn and infant deaths in Mississippi and to improve the quality of health care for Mississippi mothers and babies."

Help needed to eliminate litter

By WILLIAM O. GOODWIN

Solid waste, trash, garbage, litter — it's a mounting problem that we need more than ever to do something about. If you're an average Mississippi citizen, you account for about five pounds of solid waste each day. This means that every year you throw away a ton of materials such as metal, glass, plastic and paper.

The current "Let's Clean Up Mississippi" program is a drive to clean up solid waste from anywhere it's not supposed to be. A local Clean Up Committee is being organized for this program. Everyone is urged to participate and do their part. After all, what better gift could we give to our Nation's Bicentennial.

This program is being sponsored by the local Clean Up Committee, The Mississippi American Revolution Bicentennial

A hen will lay 12 eggs for every four pounds of food it consumes — more than 200 eggs a year on the average.

Commission, and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

If you would like to be a part of this program, information can be obtained by calling your local Extension Service Office at 467-5456, in Bay St. Louis.

Business as usual--

Dr. Marion J. Wolfe Sr. conducts business as usual at Merchants Bank, as he has done for the past 43 years.

Dr. Marion J. Wolfe Sr. of Bay St. Louis entered Merchants Bank and Trust Co. Monday to conduct business as usual, as he has done for the past 43 years, but this time was treated to more than a smile and pleasant conversation from the teller.

In honor of his 70th birthday, Dr. Wolfe was feted with a party by the bank staff "right in the middle of the working day."

A well known customer, and past president of the bank, Dr. Wolfe has been a practicing general practitioner in Bay St. Louis since 1933.

Neither the bank nor Dr. Wolfe could recall exactly when he served as president, but Dr. Wolfe knew it coincided with his "heyday" in practice.

"Actually, I didn't have too much to do at the bank," he said, "just make sure things were running smoothly and check in on them every day." Dr. Wolfe said his tenure as bank president was a "quiet, slow" period in his life. "There were no robberies, we never came up short, and the money was always where it was supposed to be."

In his role as longtime bank customer, Dr. Wolfe admitted that banking trends have changed. "They keep adding more services...just making things easier on the customer."

"In my day," he said "the working people didn't have that much money to deposit, but now that wages have gone up, there's a lot more money flowing in."

Dr. Wolfe, who is now "semi-retired" goes to his office daily at 125 Carroll Ave., where he shares a suite with his son, Dr. M. J. Wolfe Jr., an optometrist.

Acknowledging that banking has changed over the years, Dr. Wolfe claims "but patients will never change. They'll still have aches and pains long after I'm gone."

With time off for a party

Judy Williford, Mary Seymour and Dr. Wolfe, and standing Henry Monti, bank vice president.

Group forms Waveland Youth Activities

Several women have joined together to form the Waveland Youth Activities, a fund-raising group which will sponsor youth activities at the Waveland Community and Civic Center, scheduled for completion in May.

Organizers of the group include Jean Townsend, Betty Diboll, Frances Stork, Helen Carter, Margaret Mirandy, Georgette Ming, and Amelda Price.

Mrs. Townsend said this week that classes are scheduled to begin at the center in June. She said definite arrangements have been made to conduct art classes for junior and senior high school students under the direction of Carl Baldenhoffer, and judo classes for children of all ages under the direction of Marion Green, black belt instructor. A ladies self defense class will be included in the judo session, she said.

"Hopefully, guitar and woodworking classes will be offered if we can find instructors," Mrs. Townsend added.

Fund-raising events on schedule include a trash and treasure sale April 23-24 at Mrs. Townsend's home, located at the intersection of Fifth St. and Sears Ave., Waveland, and a pancake breakfast from 7-10 a.m. at the same address April 25.

Donations for this event are $2 per person.

Mrs. Townsend said future projects include a "pay as you go" cocktail party where an original painting will be sold.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of the group, or in registering for classes, should contact Jean Townsend, telephone 467-3987 or Betty Diboll, telephone 467-4875.

CLERMONT HANDCRAFTERS

Plans were finalized at the club's meeting Monday afternoon for an Easter party Thursday, April 15 for the crippled children of the Crippled Children Foundation in Kiln.

Members also discussed and voted to hold a fall bazaar featuring articles made by members.

Mrs. A. M. Thomas, program chairman, read a poem entitled "Mirror, Mirror" and Mrs. William Mains read an Easter poem composed by her daughter.

Handmade Easter items were displayed by Mrs. Rita Marti and the gift basket for the month was won by Mrs. Thomas.

Mesdames Viva Smith, Richard Murray and C. F. Schwartz Jr. hosted the social hour.

The meeting was presided over by president Mrs. Maurice George.

EXTENSION HOMEEMAKERS

Hancock County Extension Homemakers Council met Thursday, April 1, in the Extension auditorium with Mrs. Gladys Discon, president, conducting the business session.

Mrs. Ethel Breaux was appointed chairman for the May 14 flower and vegetable show with Mrs. Pauline Reid as cochairman.

Following a brief business session a social hour was hosted by the Cypress Club. The next meeting will be May 6 at 1 p.m.

FIRST DISTRICT CONVENTION

The First District Convention Corporation of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Department of Mississippi and Ladies Auxiliary met Tuesday, March 30, at V.F.W. Post 3937, Long Beach, Ms. to further plans for the coming Convention scheduled May 15-16, Ramada Inn, Long Beach. Representing the Department of Mississippi and Ladies Auxiliary will be Commander Eddie Migue, Biloxi and Mrs. Jean Woodard, state president, Gulfport.

Plans are being made to have a Bicentennial program on the afternoon of Saturday, May 15. The program will be produced and narrated by Mrs. Inez Sherwood, Cleveland, Bicentennial chairman, Ladies Auxiliary to the V.F.W., Department of Mississippi.

Long Beach 3937, Biloxi 2434, Bay St. Louis 3253 and Pass Christian 5931 were represented at the meeting.

The next Corporation meeting will be held April 20 at 7:30 p.m., Long Beach Post No. 3937.

HIGH AUXILIARY

The members of the Women's Auxiliary of Hancock General Hospital can well be proud of the success of their luncheon given last Wednesday at the Main Street Methodist Church. Over a 100 interested members of the community came to enjoy good home made food, amid a bicentennial setting. Tables, set with colorful 1776-1976 placemats, had several clusters of American flags of various sizes on them.

Graphologist, Mrs. Therese Crumbaugh and her assistant, Mrs. June Gilbreath, analyzed the handwriting of about 30 of the guests, all of whom agreed it was both interesting and informative.

A style show sponsored by The Little Mushroom, under the guidance of Mrs. John Hill, followed. Children from the Presbyterian Kindergarten modeled. Adult fashions from Mrs. Laura Polindexter's sportswear shop, The Sea Chest, were also modeled. Both shops generously donated door prizes.

The Flower Shop, owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Williams, donated a lovely floral centerpiece used on the head table, and later given as a door prize.

4-H ELECTRIC CLUB ORGANIZED

The Circuit Breakers, a 4-H Electric Project Club, was recently organized in Bay St. Louis. The following officers were elected: David Smith, president; Donald Ginn, vice president; Melvin Barnes, secretary; Scott Adam, treasurer; and Dennis Rhodes, reporter. Billy Stechmann is the leader for this group.

The Circuit Breakers will normally meet the first Thursday of each month at the main office building of Coast Electric Power Association, Stechmann said.

This club, as well as others, has signed the Affirmative Action Statement saying that it does not discriminate and is open to all youth between the ages of 9 to 19.

Sills, who has expanded her repertoire to include over 50 roles, will sing selections from "La Traviata," "Linda di Chamounix," and "Lucia di Lammermoor," in addition to Adam's "Variations." Conducting for this special concert will be music director Werner Torkanowsky.

The Symphony Office, in announcing the concerts, emphasized that Beverly Sills will sing on Tuesday and Thursday rather than Tuesday and Wednesday, the customary performance nights for regular subscription concerts. While she is here, Ms. Sills will also be representing the March of Dimes, for which she is honorary national chairwoman of the Mothers' repertoire.

W Club members assist in Waveland beautification

The W Club of Waveland Elementary School, a civic club organized nearly two years ago by Doug McQueen, principal, has accomplished much since it was formed, but their biggest project has come this spring - to assist in the beautification of the city of Waveland. The W Clubbers have already begun beautification of Elwood Park and the area around the school with many more projects planned for the rest of the school year.

"The children planted six azalea bushes and six pear trees at the park," Mrs. William Gaudet, Waveland beautification chairman, said, "but someone stole all of the pear trees about two days after the planting."

The students also planted pear trees and azaleas at the school under the guidance of Mrs. Charlotte Johnson and Benny Brink.

Future beautification plans announced by McQueen include a home beautification project; clean-up of several streets, and a plan to plant red, white and blue flowers in various areas of Waveland.

The home beautification project, which will be under the supervision of Mrs. Gaudet and Mrs. Johnson, will be entirely voluntary on the part of the W Club members. Those wishing to participate, who have their parents' consent, may plant flowers, cut weeds, paint or fix up their own home. A before and after investigation will be held.

Physical conditioning, discipline, and team work were emphasized. A former student at Long Beach High School, he joined the Marines in October 1975.

Brother Lee Barker elected order's Provincial Superior

St. Stanislaus High School principal, Brother Lee Barker, has been elected Provincial Superior of the New Orleans Province of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, effective July 1. He replaces Brother Mark Thornton who completed his second three-year term, the maximum allowed under the orders of the brotherhood. Brother Mark will be assigned a new position within the province. The appointment of a new principal for Stanislaus has not yet been made by the provincial council although such an announcement is expected soon, a spokesman said.

Brother Lee entered the Sacred Heart order in Sept., 1945 following graduation from Thibodaux College, Louisiana. Brother Lee took his first vows on Aug. 15 of the following year, and made his final profession on June 10, 1953, in Bay St. Louis.

In 1957 he followed advanced theological studies in Rome, after having taught in schools in New York City, Alexandria, La., Metuchen, N.J., Dauphin, Ala., and Bay St. Louis.

Named principal of St. Aloysius High School, New Orleans in 1963, he was appointed principal of St. Stanislaus in 1966. Since 1961 he has served on the provincial council of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, New Orleans Council.

Brother Lee is the son of Mrs. Aline Barker and the late Dr. Charles Barker of Thibodaux. A member of the National Association of Secondary School Principals and the National Catholic Education Association, he is presently serving as chairman of the Education Commission for the Natchez-Jackson Diocese.

As provincial superior, Brother Lee will reside at the Provincial Residence, 204 Hancock Street, Bay St. Louis.

There was better weather the past week. Better for fishing, that is! Better for other sports too, better because Spring is just around the corner. Soft crabbing and floundering are not far off. Learn how to do both these sports and enjoy some thing new.

Picking up soft crabs can be done by the whole family, young or old. Sticking flounders is no special art. A light and spear are the only things needed. We have some experts around here at both these sports, fine people, who will help you get started.

Hard crabs shed on a falling tide, while flounders are caught best on a rising tide. Just the opposite up Jourdan River - as flounders are caught there on a falling tide.

As to fishing, outside fishing has been on the bad side, while fresh water fishing is improving day by day. Bass and perch are being caught more everywhere, both on the fly rod and by casting. Still fishing has been best in bayous, lakes and inland ponds when using live baits, earth worms, shrimp, minnows, and the like.

Bank fishing is always good this time of the year. Find out where the fish are spawning for best results.

When fishing from a boat, don't overload. When using a motor - be safe! Safety is the best policy. Respect other fishermen. They have the right to all waters the same as you.

It is with much regret that we report the death of Charley Hurley of Martetta, Ga. Charley was one of our best friends, best fishing partner, best neighbor 45 years ago. Thanks to Aline, his wife for informing us of his passing and we extend our sympathy to her and the family.

Didn't do justice to the Gun and Rod Club's crayfish supper and meeting last Monday. It was one of the best meetings in a long time and about 60 members and guests were present. Want to specially mention members serving supper: LeRoy Luke, Harold Kranke, Vernon Haas of the Kiln and Gus Elmer of Bayou LaCroix.

Frank Ladner is president and, with the help of the members, is doing a swell job promoting and enlarging this fisherman and hunters' club.

Found out that Phillip Billiot is a salt water fisherman and does a lot of fishing. There is plenty of good fishing in this neck of the woods, partner.

Wendell Lorio was the guest speaker at the Gun and Rod Club meeting. Mr. Lorio is with the Mississippi State University Research Center, NSTL, Bay St. Louis. His talk on fishing and conservation was interesting and informative.

Was pleased to meet Gloria Landry, who is with the Hancock County Senior Citizens transportation section. Gloria went fishing in Florida, but said she didn't do too good. We have all the fishing you want right here, Gloria.

Another fisherman is Bultz Madue who owns a home in Shoreline Park. He does most of his fishing at Pointe La Hache and catches plenty. He has a soft spot in his heart for this fishing territory. Maybe we'll make a trip there, someday.

Willard Gavagne is another of our best fishermen. Fly fishing, we think, is his favorite sport. Let us know how you have been doing lately fellow! Always looking for a new spot.

Met Lucien Kidd the other day, another good fisherman. Lucien says he is too busy to go fishing. All work and no play is bad. Thanks for the baits, Buddy.

Thanks Sherill and Beau for the visit. These are the Kelley's from Gulfport. When you get straightened out we will make that fishing trip, Beau. They are our grandchildren.

Bird watching is interesting and building bird houses can be fun for the boys of the family. Put out bird food and you will be surprised how many different birds you will see that will come daily to feed. A bird book can be purchased and it will be fun to distinguish the different birds on sight. Protect our birds: It is our duty.

'Salt water fishing must be getting better according to Mrs. Vicki Clark who caught a six pound sheepshead the other day. Also in her catch were six croakers and two other sheepshead. Mrs. Clark is the wife of Sobet S. Clark. Both are with R.S.V.P. and have a home on Blue Meadow Road.

News of Pearl River has it that the river is holding lower water levels. The mighty Pearl down this way is rather high but falling gradually. Pearl River is one of our best fishing streams for both salt and fresh fish.

Changing weather made things bad for fishing the past week end. In fact other sports writer's said fresh water fishing in general wasn't too good. At such places as Grand Isle, Leesville and in that area salt water fishing was on the low side. Of course some specks, red fish and big croakers can always be caught. But big catches of these fish have apparently been scarce.

Fished at Salt Bayou two days this week. Caught some bass and trout. Put over at Sam's Place where there is a nice launching ramp. The owner is a wonderful guy. Thanks for the boiled crabs. They made a wonderful supper. Crabbing can be done along the banks of the bayou and off the bridge over Salt Bayou itself. A day's fishing and crabbing can be done by the whole family.

All-star ballots seen for Barnhouse of Ole Miss

UNIVERSITY Miss. - To perpetual followers of Ole Miss baseball, there might be some difficulty in locating Mark Barnhouse in the current All-Star ballot.

For the defensive minded, he's back at second base, where he started as a freshman before a mid-season injury sidelined him the rest of that season.

A year ago he was one of the finest first sackers in the Southeastern Conference clearing only two errors in 45 games. But there's much more to the Memphis junior's game this year than his defensive prowess.

He's more offensive with the bat. Through the last seven games, six of them SEC encounters, Barnhouse owns the Rebels' batting crown with a .455 average with two homers and 11 RBIs.

For the full report he stands second in hitting at .317 and surprisingly leads the club in RBIs with 13.

The first eight games this spring were some of the longest in which Barnhouse has ever played. He floundered at a lowly .158, just three hits in 19 at bats.

However, starting with Auburn on Mar. 20, he has banged out 10 hits in his last 22 official trips to the plate.

"Barney was pressing and it was obvious," said Rebel head coach Jake Gibbs. "He was just too anxious but now with some extra work, is more relaxed and is more selective in the pitches at which he swings."

In the Auburn series, Barnhouse was five for seven with a homer and four RBIs, followed that with a two x four showing including a home run and three more RBIs against Arkansas State and added three hits last weekend against LSU.

"When I wasn't hitting I would get down on myself which is something that can't be done in baseball. Now I'm just trying to make good contact and they'll fall in eventually."

The power-hitter stigma is foreign to the Barnhouse. Hitting style of his freshman-sophomore campaigns. He approached 1976 with a lifetime average of .280 and accumulated 13 RBIs in all 45 games last year, a figure he's already attained this term.

With the glove, he's been amazing. Just nine miscues in three years.

And he's touched down now at every locale in the infield. Barnhouse began as a third baseman-shortstop in his early high-school years in Ridgewood, N.J. His family soon moved to Memphis where he was an All-District and All-City shortstop for Ridgewood High in 1972-73.

In the Auburn and LSU series he turned defensive gems which Gibbs termed "major league."

Against the Plainsmen, he went far to his right, whirled and threw to initiate a double play, from second to first. At Baton Rouge last weekend, he scooted into short right field to convert a base hit into a ground out.

If the Rebel second baseman continues to parlay his steady play afield with a loud ringing bat, he'll be tough to budge in conference all-star balloting.

Rebels (punt) Robertson into gridiron swing slot

It wasn't moving fast, but it was moving. Robertson, a senior, was named to the swing slot in the Rebels' line of scrimmage.

The spokesman is defensive coordinator and line coach Jim "Smoot" Smith. He said the move was made because of Robertson's size and strength.

Like other members of the line, Smith is looking forward to April 16 and the Red-Blue intrasquad game for a comparison at his charges. The "Pet" involved is Pete Robertson, a sturdy 6-6, 257-lb. veteran interior lineman who has spent most of his time during Ole Miss football drills at middle guard.

From 1973-75, however, he was a Rebel tackle, frequently a starter and handicapped by a nerve injury in his right arm.

For example, Pete set out most of the Rebel football players in 1974 and watched all of spring training a year ago from the sidelines taking part only in conditioning workouts.

Prior to the start of this year's off-season work, Robertson had commented, "If Ber Williams could move over and do well at middle guard, so can ole Pete."

And he has done well at the vital middle guard position. But with Lawrence Johnson (6-3, 227), the incumbent left tackle on the casualty list, it was time to move Robertson back to that slot for a trial run.

Like other members of the Ole Miss staff, Carmody has had to share the group of sizable young linemen moving up from fresh ranks. But he was better off than some several years ago when he retained all of his 1975 crop - that is, aside from the graduation loss of the versatile Williams, an All-SEC performer.

Against LSU, Tennessee and Mississippi State in the finishing victories for last season's Rebels, the linemen finishing up as starters were Johnson at left tackle, Williams, and Mike Pittman (6-3, 227) at right tackle.

This spring it has been Johnson, Robertson and Pittman. The next group has Mike Forester (6-2, 224) at left tackle, James Jordan (6-1, 240), at middle guard and Bryan Niebuhr (6-4, 245) at right tackle.

Also, there's Mickey Thomas (6-0, 237) and Keith Kelum (6-3, 235) at the tackles and Charlie Cage (6-2, 236) and Jim Hawkins (6-3, 238) at middle guard.

Forester is a senior letterman, Niebuhr a sophomore who lettered two years ago at offensive tackle, then red-shirted last season. Kelum is another red-shirt sophomore. The other candidates are up from fresh ranks.

"All have done well," Carmody noted over the weekend. "We've had a good spring. And barring physical mishaps, we should be a formidable defensive unit throughout 1976."

Champion twirler

The number of trophies surrounding Kim Marie Huch give some indication as to why she was recently named Grand Champion Twirler of Mississippi. Miss Huch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Huch of Long Beach.

State twirling honors go to LBHS senior

Kim Marie Huch, Long Beach High School senior, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Huch, 105 Yucca Dr., Long Beach, was recently named Grand Champion Twirler of Mississippi.

Among her many honors, Miss Huch includes the Senior State Twirling title, and the Senior State Twirling title.

Miss Huch was named Grand Champion during competition held April 3 in Jackson. She will now represent the state at the National Twirling Contest in Miami, Fla., during July.

Concerning her win, Miss Huch replied that she now has an idea "how Dorothy Hamill felt when the judges flashed all NO. 1's for the Grand Twirling Award."

Her instructor is Neal Brown, Academy of Twirling, Gulfport.
